

Adapting ethics review during the COVID-19 pandemic

It is of critical importance to conduct research during public health emergencies, such as the COVID-19 pandemic. Yet, research and the ethical review of research in these contexts present unique challenges, including the rapidity with which research and ethical review must occur. This seminar will explore the unique challenges associated with the ethical review of research during the COVID-19 pandemic, highlight the manner in which ethical review has adapted to address these challenges over the past year, and identify future opportunities for ethical review of research during public health emergencies.

Time: 10 May 2021 1pm-2pm (London)

To register: https://zoom.us/webinar/register/WN_wfYjgnvORBiK1KAdOe5gew

Chair: Carla Saenz, PhD, Regional Bioethics Advisor, Pan American Health Organization, Washington, DC

Panel: Maureen Kelley, PhD, Professor of Bioethics, Wellcome Centre for Ethics and Humanities and Ethox Centre, Univ of Oxford, UK

Dr Roli Mathur, Head, ICMR Bioethics Unit, Bengaluru, India, WHO Collaborating Centre for Strengthening Ethics in Biomedical Health Research

Raffaella Ravinetto, PhD, Institutional Review Board, Chairperson, Institute of Tropical Medicine, Antwerp, Belgium