| 13:00 - 13:10 | Welcome and Introductions | Julio Arturo Canario , Co-Founder & President at ISAMT Instituto de Salud Mental y Telepsicología, República Dominicana |
| 13:10 – 13:25 | Session 1 “Reimagining wellbeing: inclusive and creative responses to gender, sexuality and health inequalities” | Mx Gabriel Hoosain Khan (they/them) specialises in developing creative interventions (using art, writing and drama) to build leadership, engage youth and respond to crosscutting social issues. They are currently the Inclusivity and Capacity-Building Specialist at the Office for Inclusivity and Change, University of Cape Town. As part of their role, Gabriel develops and implements training and capacity building interventions which contribute to transformation, inclusion, and critical diversity. They work with academic, classroom support and other staff members involved in the teaching and learning environment to integrate content related to inequality, oppression and discrimination into curriculum and teaching practice. They are the co-author of Creative Resistance: Participatory Methods for Engaging Queer Youth . |
| 13:25 – 13:40 | Session 2 “The dynamic relationship between academic and advocacy work on mental health: Lessons from Chile” | Dr Cristian Montenegro is a qualitative health researcher with a background in sociology, community psychology and health policy. He is broadly interested in the intersection between health and democracy, at the micro (service-user and caregiver’s engagement) and macro-levels (health-related social movements and activist practices). He has conducted research on service-user activism and policy transformations in the mental health field, using a combination of ethnography, oral history, and in-depth interviews. He has worked as a consultant in the Chilean Ministry of Health and is a founding member of the Platform for Social Research in Mental Health in Latin America (PLASMA). |
