

Community Engagement with AMR: Responsive Dialogues in Practice

To address antimicrobial resistance (AMR), community engagement needs to be combined with stakeholder engagement across sectors. The Responsive Dialogues approach provides guidance for this, generating practical steps to tackle AMR at community and policy level.

Join this webinar to hear speakers from Malawi-Liverpool-Wellcome Trust in Malawi and Mahidol Oxford Tropical Medicine Research Unit in Thailand share insights from two country pilots.

Chair

Dr Mirfin Mpundu, Director, ReAct Africa and Partnerships and Stakeholder Engagement Lead Africa, ICARS

Speakers

Dr Bhensri Naemiratch, Medical Anthropologist, Mahidol Oxford Tropical Medicine Research Unit, Thailand

Dr Anne Osterrieder, Public Engagement Evaluation and Learning Lead, Mahidol Oxford Tropical Medicine Research Unit, Thailand

John Mankhomwa, Medical Anthropologist, Malawi Liverpool Wellcome Trust Clinical Research Unit, Malawi

Mackwellings Phiri, Social Scientist, Malawi Liverpool Wellcome Trust Clinical Research Unit, Malawi

13 October 2022 | 13:00 GMT+1 (14:00 CAT, 19:00 ICT)

REGISTER NOW