Developing a new TB diagnostic test?

We support TB diagnostic test development by providing developers with an opportunity to evaluate their diagnostic test while in development:

- In the healthcare facilities, our clinical staff collect samples from legible patients
- In the laboratory, scientists process the samples using protocols devised either by, or in partnership with, our clients
- Tests to confirm TB are readily available: our aim is to work with our clients to augment the performance of their diagnostic test, either through improvements in sensitivity and/or specificity, turnaround time or by developing enhanced testing protocols
